BEGINNINGS
THE 1973 EDITION
OF
THE MAROON
& WHITE

There were those mornings no sun

with all that babble throughout the day and now

nostalgia for all that pain yet there seemed hope that while life exists

a freshness prevails if you can only live one dream then let it be your own.

Jim Daly

Perhaps it began with wild forbidding discord.
 A colliding of colors crashing and fusing Infinity exploding, chaotic—Suddenly there seemed a liberation from turmoil.
 Divergent features flew into oneness.
 We, capable of limitless potential sharing oneness a source of our common meaning.

"Had it been accidental, we would be without significance.
 If it all came from nothingness we would be encased in a void.
 We would still not be in the midst of unfolding."

looking for its "special" place to reach upward without crowding its neighbor.
The child saw also scrawny twisted trunks who shriveled and died long ago just awaiting the kiss of fire.
As this child went forth he observed mountains growing from these flat lands all sparkling with lakes teaming with life and gurgling brooks a-flowing dancing in their diamond clarity over obstacles great and small while hurrying to those flat land forests so dry and desert like all mesquite and cacti thirsting and hungry.
Reflecting one cool evening on the crest of a mountain while gazing at visions in the "fire-fingered stretches of cotton candied horizons" this child realized that he was no longer a child but a young man

Upon this road one day a child went forth
and each step along the way became he a part of it
be it for that day alone or this day of weeks or of many months or years upon years of days eternally.
Touching life and drinking deeply of its bitter-sweet nectar he grew and observed on his both sides trees of varied splendor (or so they appeared); some tall and straight reaching high stately and proud;
some low and bent twisting around its stronger neighbor, yet reaching for the sun and equality, acceptance; some crawling along the ground scraping bottom and as the setting sun mirrored his countenance he saw laked and trees and brooks---bitter-sweet nectar---a child---fire--- a road ahead still untraveled and he realized that he had become all that he had experienced since he had gone forth.

And so, upon this road
one day a young man went forth
became he a part of it.....

For those who would remember me:

you are with me always, especially when i am alone - and i wonder where you are whose hand you are holding who you love today. i think of you and remember something out of yesterday that is more than a memory, but so much less than now.
we talked a lot,
you and i,
like two lonely prophets whose minds and hearts met and fell in something, maybe love.
we talked about sun and rain and looked at stars and shared dreams.
we never made plans.
time was not part of the world that was ours.
we waited for nothing, except each other.

"And let your best be for your friend, If he must know the ebb of your tide, let him know its flood also.
For what is your friend that you should seek him with hours to kill?
Seek him always with hours to live.
For it is his to fill your need, but not your emptiness.
And in the sweetness of friendship let there be laughter,

FOOTBALL '73

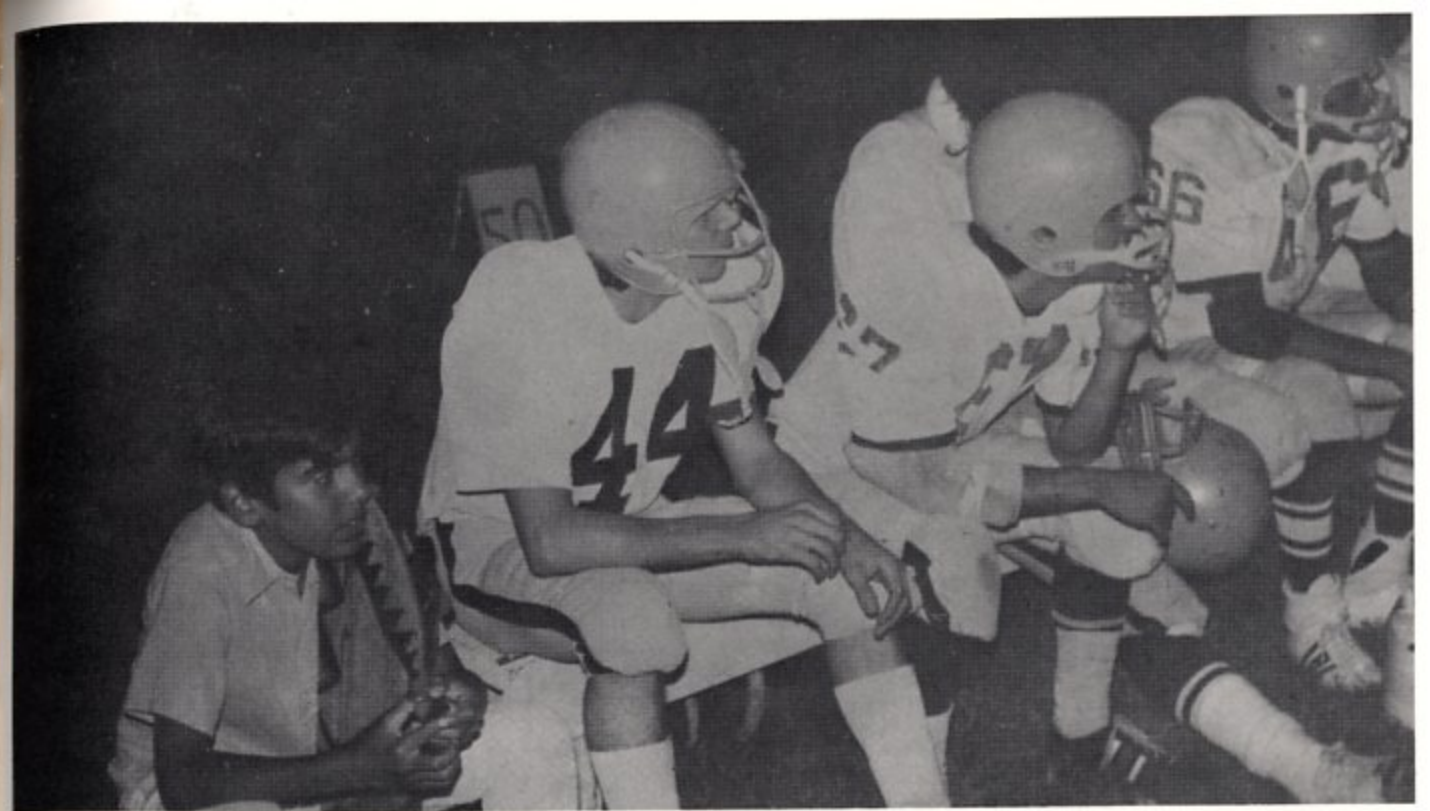

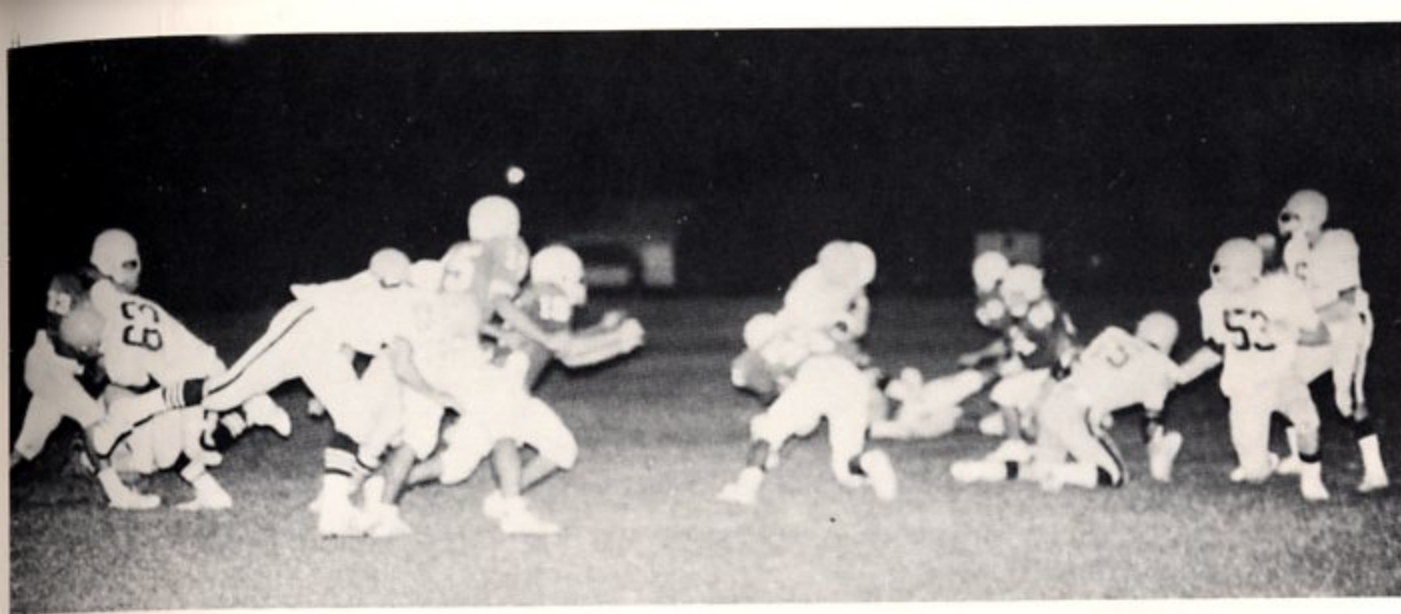

Though the sports program has been an integral part of the SJA curriculum for many years, this past one proved to be the focal year for our graduating class. If our theme was overwhelmingly flaunted anywhere, it was in sports. The cheerleaders were a clear representation of the people who were rooting for our teams. But it didn't stop there. This intangible, driving force transcended the "spectator barrier" and embedded itself in the players themselves. This intangible something is what we will try to portray in this section!
